

Hope you had a Great Weekend...Mine was a very busy weekend, trying to figure out how to weld this Roof frame to the frame. Without having any correct measurements to go by. (GRRR) I Started to Design.

But I think I got it pretty close to where it should go. I tried looking around in a few LamboBuilder sites and didn't find anything worth using. So I came up with my own design and plan.

Seems to fit pretty good underneath the Body. So I think that's the way its going to stay.

Fabricating chassis modification parts

Checking for "square" always

The quality of the weld is always important

Marking to check proper alignment

Reinforcement being installed
